Alternatively to turn on the plugin use the Winamp's control the plugins: (Options->Preferences->Plug-ins->Enable/Disable Plugins) It is very simple to work with the plugin on 64-bit version of Winamp in which the new plugin supports: 64-bit plugins. support for 32 and 64-bit Winamp version (i.e. Winamp 2.98, Winamp 3.13 and Winamp 3.50). Actually the plugin supports both 32-bit and 64-bit versions, and if you're using a 32-bit version and need to use a 64-bit one, it's not a problem.

Macromedia FLASH 9 or above required to work Viewer page using the plugin:

Macromedia Flash 9.0 or above required (see the Plugin's manual for more details on the functionality that is not supported by the plugin's Viewer page (no item or title at the left column in the Viewer page - set this manually). Why not using the Winamp's control there?? I think that is impossible because the plugin supports only 32-bit version of Winamp. This situation is not an error but a choice (the authors do not control the use of this plugin from 64-bit Winamp), but the support for the 64-bit version of Winamp is growing, so I think you should prefer to use it (that is, the plugin supports Winamp 2.98, Winamp 3.13 and Winamp 3.50).

- 1) It is possible to not show the button for the "Help" in the Viewer page with the "plugin".
- 2) The "plugin's menu" is not shown in the Viewer page (in the left column of the Viewer page you can add your own "menu" (eg for plugins' update or another)).
- 3) You can disable the tabs on the Viewer page with the "plugin".
- 4) The "plugin's skin" can be changed.
- 5) You can open the "plugin's skin" in the "plugin's manager" page.
- 6) The "plugin's status" can be
